Mixed growth prospects in FY22F

- 1Q22 results were below expectations at 15%/19% of our/Bloomberg consensus' FY22F PAT due to lower-than-expected semi equipment delivery.
- The group sees a challenging 1H22F due to logistics bottlenecks caused by lockdowns in China, raw material shortages and inflationary cost pressures.
- We cut FY22-24F EPS by 15-18% but keep our Add rating on the stock with a lower RM2.20 TP, based on lower 20x CY23F P/E (1 s.d. below mean).

1Q22 core net profit slid 11% yoy

Revenue in 1Q22 jumped 64% yoy mainly due to the consolidation of Accurus under Semiconductor Material business unit (SMBU) following the Accurus acquisition in Apr 21. The higher sales from SMBU helped to offset the weaker contributions from Semiconductor Equipment business unit (SEBU), which fell by 17.6% yoy. The group attributed the lower SEBU sales to weaker Chinese demand with the completion of the semi equipment purchase cycle in 2021 and slow start in the US market. EBITDA margin in 1Q22 fell by 10.2% pts yoy due to changes in sales mix, given that the SMBU products portfolio yields a lower margin than that of SEBU. Overall core net profit fell by 10.5% yoy.

Mixed growth prospects; revising down FY22-24F EPS by 15-18%

The group expects mixed prospects for SEBU and SMBU in the coming quarters. The group see a challenging outlook for SEBU due to cautious equipment spending from its customers amid uncertainty brought about by recent developments such as the on-going Russia-Ukraine conflict, Covid-19 lockdowns in China and inflationary cost pressures. Meanwhile, the group foresees robust demand in SMBU, driven by multi-year growth in 5G mobile and network deployment, high-performance computing and Internet-of-Things (IoT) in spite of the China lockdowns and delays in the commercialisation of its Ningbo plant. Overall, we cut our FY22-24F EPS by 15-18% to account for lower equipment delivery and the delay in the commercialisation of the Ningbo plant from 1H22F to 2H22F.

Embarking on the second phase of its 10-year roadmap

The group plans to set up its third and fourth business units under the second phase of its 10-year roadmap (2019-2028F) as part of its expansion plan to become a semiconductor and commercial solutions provider. For its upcoming third business unit, the group aims to develop a new advanced packaging technology platform and manufacturing process leveraging on its expertise in the semi equipment and material businesses. Meanwhile for the fourth business unit, the group is looking at commercial electronics product development for household items with increasing technology content and features.

Retain Add with a lower RM2.20 TP

Retain Add with a lower RM2.20 TP, based on a lower 20x CY23F P/E, which is 1 s.d. below Malaysian Automated Test Equipment (ATE) sector 5-year mean P/E of 30x. The stock also offers decent FY22-23F 2.8-3.1% dividend yields. We still like Mi Technovation's long-term aspiration to be a multinational diversified semiconductor solutions provider.

Key catalysts and risks ►

Earnings-accretive acquisitions, new equipment launches and a weaker ringgit vs. US$ are potential re-rating catalysts, while a decline in semiconductor industry capex, delays in components' lead times and lower smartphone demand are key downside risks.

ESG in a nutshell

Mi Technovation is a semiconductor equipment manufacturer with regional operations in Malaysia, Taiwan, China and South Korea. Mi Technovation has adopted three out of the 17 United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, namely 1) decent work and economic growth, 2) industry innovation and infrastructure, and 3) partnerships for the goals. However, we see room for improvement, especially in the environmental aspects, given that the group does not conduct environmental impact assessments or sets climate action goals, which could help to boost its ESG score rating. Mi Technovation is ranked in the bottom 25% in terms of ESG Ratings among FBM EMAS PLCs by FTSE Russell.

Keep your eye on	Implications
Mi Technovation completed the acquisition of Accurus Scientific via a share swap in Apr 2021. Accurus has manufacturing locations in Taiwan and China that are supported mainly by local hires. We think it is important for Mi Technovation to ensure fair employee treatment across the group given that it has become a multinational company. The group also needs to integrate Accurus's and Mi Technovation's working cultures to ensure operations run smoothly	Mi Technovation is keeping the existing management of Accurus as part of the acquisition exercise. We think this will help to accelerate the integration process. In addition, it is in Accurus's management interests to ensure the company performs as they have become shareholders of Mi Technovation.
ESG highlights	Implications
As of Dec 2021, Mi Technovation's workforce totalled 435, with 41% of employees aged 30 and below, 51% aged between 30 and 50 years old and the remaining 8% aged above 50 years old. In addition, technical personnel, numbering 303, make up 70% of the group's total workforce.	Mi Technovation is helping the Malaysian semiconductor industry move up the value chain by creating higher-paying job opportunities for local talent in the design and development stage. The company does not rely on migrant workers for its operations, removing potential issues related to migrant worker mistreatment.
Trends	Implications
The group is working with higher learning institutions and universities to offer internship programmes to local tertiary education students. In FY21, the group's internship programme had 9 interns. The group also participates in career fairs organised by local universities.	Mi Technovation's success is highly dependent on employees' technical strength and ability to innovate in order to stay ahead of the competition. The company does not disclose its employee turnover ratio. We think it is important the group ensures a healthy pipeline of talent and implements a holistic employee retention strategy given the stiff competition for engineering talent from multinational corporations that are expanding in Penang.
